Hi, Lululemon Mexico Team:

Beyond my track record in Visual Merchandising, I am a true believer that physical spaces have the power to transform people's energy. That's why I'm so excited about the possibility of joining you as your new Lead, Visual Merchandising.

I've spent the last 10 years figuring out how to tell compelling stories through products for global brands like L'Oréal, Adidas, and Levi's. My focus has always been to blend creativity with flawless execution so that every store feels alive and relevant.

Here is what I can bring to your team:

Regional & Strategic Vision: During my time at Dockers, I led Visual Merchandising across 6 Latin American countries, maintaining brand consistency for over 270 points of sale. I know what it takes to scale a global vision without losing that vital local touch.

Leadership Through Teaching: My goal isn't just to make a store look good, but to ensure the teams understand the "why" behind it. I've developed manuals and guidelines that truly empower in-store teams to execute with excellence.

Passion for Detail and Design: From coordinating the Adidas Brand Center Madero opening to managing national VM budgets at L'Oréal Luxe, I thrive on the challenge of grounding big ideas within real budgets and timelines.

Results that Matter: I believe great design should drive the business. At Aéropostale, for example, redesigning visual guidelines helped us boost foot traffic by 43% and conversion by 18%.

I would love to chat with you about how my experience in the Mexican market and my creative vision can help Lululemon continue to inspire more people through its retail spaces.

Thank you so much for your time and for considering my application.

Best regards,

Mauricio Meyrán
