To the Under Armour Recruitment Team:

In the world of sports and performance, every second and every detail counts. With over 10 years of experience leading Visual Merchandising strategies across international markets, I am excited to apply for the Sr. Professional, Visual Merchandising position.

My background perfectly aligns with the Go-to-Market (GTM) focus of this role. I don't just see Visual Merchandising as an aesthetic tool, but as a strategic driver to maximize sales and brand consistency within managed spaces.

Here is how my experience maps to your requirements:

End-to-End GTM & Wholesale Success: In my experience with Dockers (Levi Strauss & Co.), I didn't just manage retail; I oversaw the visual strategy for over 270 points of sale across 6 countries. I am deeply familiar with the "sell-in" process and how to partner with accounts to help them grow their business through premium product presentation.

Retail Theatre & Large Scale Execution: Participating in high-impact projects like the Adidas Flagship Store Madero opening taught me how to deliver world-class consumer journeys. I understand how to translate global brand guidelines into local retail environments that inspire the consumer.

Third-Party Agency Management: Throughout my career, especially at L'Oréal Luxe, I have led cross-functional teams and managed external vendors and VM agencies. I know how to set clear standards to ensure that third-party execution remains 100% consistent with the brand's identity.

Strategic Budgeting & Efficiency: I have a proven track record of managing CAPEX/OPEX budgets efficiently, including a project that achieved a 74% reduction in national campaign costs without sacrificing visual impact—a mindset I intend to bring to the EMEA team.

I am a proactive professional who thrives in fast-paced, multinational environments. I am eager to bring my expertise in regional rollouts and my passion for sports performance to Under Armour in the UK to help elevate the brand's presence across the market.

Thank you for your time and for considering my application. I look forward to the possibility of discussing how my vision for Visual Merchandising can contribute to Under Armour's success.

Sincerely,

Mauricio Meyrán
